John G. Carlisle's Distinction.

In the Presidential campaign of 1896 the late JOHN G. CARLISLE had the honor to be publicly insulted by partisans of Mr. BRYAN. At the time Mr. CARLISLE was Secretary of the Treasury in Mr. CLEVELAND's Cabinet, and he was anathema to followers of the financial genius whom the Democrats had nominated for President because Mr. CARLISLE shared with Mr. CLEVELAND the odium of procuring the repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman act.

The scene of Mr. CARLISLE's unpleasant experience, but not of his discomfiture, was Covington, where on October policy of repudiation involved in the declaration of the Bryan platform for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 and the acceptance of the standard silver dollar as full legal tender equally with gold for all debts.

Mr. CARLISLE stood up for more than two hours against a demonstration inside and outside the hall to break up the meeting called in the interests of PALMER and BUCKNER, the sound money candidates of the National Democrats, and he thrown at the Secretary of the Treasury by hoodlums hired for the purpose. The police, evidently in sympathy with them. were numerous in the hall, but made no arrests. The police did, however, surround Mr. CARLISLE at the conclusion of the disgraceful episode and protect him from mob violence until he could reach his home. At that meeting in Covington Mr. CARLISLE dealt with the financial question that was convulsing the nation with the perspicuity, soundness and vigor for which he was distinguished. but passion ruled the hour. He talked to the ignorant, the crazed and the hypnotized. They regarded him only as a traiter and a *tool of the money power." The free coinage of silver national honor. included internal revenue taxes or tariff or other indirect taxes, but only direct taxes upon real estate and personal property. There is no separate treasurer or treasury of the District of Columbia, all of its revenues are covered into and hapdied by the Federal Treasury Department.

This arrangement may be thought to be a beneficial one to the District, that is far from the case. Very much more than one-half of the total assessed valuation of the District is found to be in public buildings and grounds, and this disproportion is constantly increasing by the condemnation of additional land for Government purposes and its consequent withdrawal from the tax roll. The burdens of municipal sovernment do not diminish every building or new enlargement of the activities of the Federal Government of the activities of the Federal Government not diminish every building or new enlarge-ment of the activities of the Federal Govern-ment makes an additional demand upon the police and fire departments and upon the schools, additional extensions of water mains, lighting service, and new miles of streets to be paved and graded.

Thirty-three million dollars of debt, no part of which except $4.000,000 was ever submitted to the people of the District for approval, was incurred by that body imposed apon the people by Congress and in whose choice they had no voice. (I am aware that it was an alleged territorial government at the time and that the supposed territorial government was elective, but for reasons upon which I will not enlarge I say that the people of the District had no voice in the composition of the Board of Public Works, and believe that statement to be true.) tourists entering at Bayonne to travel through central Spain to Seville and thence, following the Mediterranean coast, to the French frontier, covering the principal points of interest, Vittoria, Burgosa Valladolid, Madrid, Toledo, Chuada Real, Cordova, Seville, Malaga, Granada, Mureta, Alicante, Valencia, Tarragona, Barcelona, Gerona and La Junquera. In addition to this circuit highway there are connecting highways which it is stated are aiready in fairly good shape. These roads are those from Barcelona to Madrid by way of Saragossa and Guadalajara and the roads in the north of Spain and to Lisbon.

The circuit highway as proposed would be about 1.671 miles. No new roads will have to be built aithough most of the distance will have to be thoroughly repaired and in many instances bridges must be built. It is estimated that an appropriation of from $1.40,000 to $1.300,000 to $1.000,000 would put the circuit highway in shape for motoring and that a yearly outlay of from $270,000 to $3.000,000 would keep it in good repair.

It is proposed when the circuit highway is ready for traffic to inaugurate it by a grand prize of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole route of Spain, a motor car contest over the whole ro
